

The Music People! Inc.

The Music People, Inc. has come a long way in 32 years. We have grown to encompass nine exclusive brands with distribution centers on both coasts. Our history and experience have helped us to incorporate award winning product packaging and design with excellent customer attention and parts services. We can satisfy all your stand and accessory needs, combining them with over 140 of the top pro-audio brands in the industry, and we have the experience and know-how to put them together. Because we are a comprehensive one-stop solution, you save time and money, using less of your administrative resources and enjoying reduced freight costs and coordinated deliveries.

Product Design

We've been fortunate to establish very close relationships with the most successful music retailers in our industry. We have listened closely to these customers, and they have helped us develop products that meet the greatest needs in the market. Jim Hennessey and his team of product designers and project coordinators continue to develop some of the industry's most innovative stands and accessories. Many of the products and features that are now so commonly used in music and equipment stands were originally developed at TMP: The first double and triple guitar stands, quick-disconnect weighted microphone stands, speaker stand locking pins... the list goes on and will continue to go on in the years to come. We have a long history of conceiving new high-volume products and improving existing ones, maximizing portability, making them work better, last longer, and cost less.

Customer Service

We have reinvested year after year into providing the best customer service we can. We've done this by hiring the finest "People". Since expanding our Customer Service assets, proportionally more than any other department, we have experienced double-digit growth. This is great evidence that we really are a customer-service driven company. Almost all of us, from our product design teams to our sales representatives, interact directly with our customers.

Parts

Isn't it nice to know that behind the great products you've grown to depend on, there is a company that makes parts available if you misplace something. If something on your stand breaks because of a defect, than we will stand behind our products. Parts are available to end-users through our customer service line or orders placed online. That's what you can expect when you buy a Music People proprietary product like On-Stage Stands and the others in this catalog.

Make Your Mark with our Custom Logo and Private Label Programs

Ask your sales representative which of our products can have your custom logo imprinted on them. We make the process simple and easy. We are proud to be associated with your business and look forward to strengthening our partnership. We also offer Private Label programs to high volume customers. We can utilize your existing graphics or our team of award-winning packaging designers can create a unique look just for you.
